THE FRINGE MARKETING EXPERTS

We need your help! – Recruiting for the Edinburgh Festival

August is fast approaching and FringeHype is recruiting this year's volunteer team for the Edinburgh Fringe Festival – the world's largest Arts festival. As the Fringe marketing experts, since 2011 we've built up an innate and unparalleled understanding of how to sell tickets for Fringe theatre and comedy productions.

We currently have openings on this year's team to help us up in Edinburgh. The Fringe is a month-long extravaganza that sees nearly 1 million visitors and 30,000 performers descend on the city to see any one of 50,000 performances – of nearly 3,500 shows! Nearly every building is turned into a performance space.

We're committed to offering one of the most attractive offerings of any Festival company for our team at the festival; we ask for just five hours a day of your time in return for the amazing benefits laid out below.

- Free accommodation provided
- £70 a week in expenses contribution
- Free tickets to over 500 shows
- Entry to several Edinburgh industry events
- Meeting and working with some of the best talent at the festival
- Working with year-round media and marketing professionals in theatre & the arts
- Links to industry and potential internships and future work for high-performers
- Great community spirit; friends made at the Fringe are friends for life

We encourage people to work with us for the entire festival if possible, but can be more flexible and week-by-week opportunities can be arranged in places. If you are already working with a show or production during the Fringe, we won't be able to provide the above benefits but may still be able to offer you casual paid shifts.

If working with us is of interest to you, please get in touch with Alex on staffing@fringehype.com for more information or fill out this application form: <https://goo.gl/px95Sw>

We can't wait to hear from you.

All the best,
Craig, Alex, and the FringeHype team
